Let's Light the Holiday Candles

Light the shamash first and as you kindle the Hanukkah lights say or sing*:

Ba-ruch a-ta Adonai, Eh-lo-hei-nu
meh-lech ha-o-lam
a-sheh ki-d'sha-nu b'mitz'vo-tav
v'tzi-va-nu l'had-lik ner shel Hanukkah

ברוך אתה יי אלהינו
מלך העולם
אשר קדשנו במצותיו
וצונו להדליק נר של חנוכה.

We praise You, Eternal God,
Sovereign of the Universe,
who makes us holy with mitzvot
and commands us to kindle the lights of Hanukkah.

Ba-ruch a-ta Adonai, Eh-lo-hei-nu
meh-lech ha-o-lam,
sheh-a-sa ni-sim la-a-vo-tai-nu/l'i-mo-tei-nu ba-ya-mim ha-heim ba-zman ha-zeh.

ברוך אתה יי אלהינו
מלך העולם
שעשה נסים לאבותינו ולאמותינו
בימים ההם בזמן הזה.

We praise You, Eternal God,
Sovereign of the Universe:
You showed wonders to our fathers/mothers in days of old at this season.

On the first night only we add:

Ba-ruch a-ta Adonai, Eh-lo-hei-nu
meh-lech ha-o-lam
sheh-heh-cheh-ya-nu v'ki-y'manu, v'higi-anu la-z'man ha-zeh.

ברוך אתה יי אלהינו
מלך העולם
שהחיינו וקיימנו
והגיענו לזמן הזה.

We praise You, Eternal God,
Sovereign of the Universe,
for giving us life, for sustaining us,
and for enabling us to reach this season.

I Was Just Thinking...

They have finally arrived. I am not sure which historical phrase more aptly captures the significance of the event. Maybe it's "The British are coming!" or "The Eagle has landed!" or something to that effect. In any event, they have finally arrived. Our new prayer books, "Mishkan Tefillah" have arrived and as we unpack them and get them ready for use, I would like to offer a few words of explanation.

First, as many will recall, the Reform Movement, after many years of thoughtful debate and research on worship, put together a group to study more thoroughly the issue of liturgical change. In 1994, with a grant from the Lily and Cummings Foundations, the Movement created a study entitled, "Lay Involvement in Liturgical Change" a three year study. The study asked rabbis, cantors and lay people to critically examine their worship, to take notes and provide feedback. According to Rabbi Elliot Stevens, who wrote in Reform Judaism magazine in the summer 2006 issue

"...The research yielded some unexpected results. Themed services (from the Gates of Prayer) don't work because of worshipers' differing needs. Thus a children's service in Gates of Prayer might not be satisfying for older members or those without children; a "humanistic" service that doesn't mention God would likely not serve those seeking a more intimate dialogue with a present God. In addition, the long-established pattern of responsive readings is too limiting for those looking for greater participation. The project also yielded important recommendations. The prayer book should have faithful translations (as opposed to interpretive translations) as well as full transliteration of the Hebrew prayers; commentaries and background information should be added but not in such a way that they might detract from the worship experience; the prayer language needs to accommodate different theologies and offer gender-inclusive images of God; and prayer should allow for private meditation. Overall, the siddur's language should be elegant, poetic, and contemporary, and its design graphically pleasing and inviting. Finally, the prayer book should include an extensive selection of musical texts, recognizing that the "singing congregation" is far more common than a generation ago--indeed, participatory worship may be the greatest innovation in what we now see as a worship revolution."

In 1999, Rabbi Elyse Frishman was named as editor of the new prayer book and, for the next three years, congregations, like Temple Shalom, volunteered to pilot the early versions of the emerging prayer book. It was agreed that Temple Shalom would not only pilot the book, but that we would purchase them as well. Through a very generous donation of love and kindness of Mel Sacks and his family, our books were purchased in loving memory of Mel's son, Richard.

Through a series of unfortunate delays, the prayer book took much longer than expected to arrive. In January of 2006, we agreed to re-pilot the prayer book as it seemed we were getting closer to actually receiving them. We spent three months collecting data and feedback and reintroducing the concept of a new prayer book to the congregation. After that experiment, and several more setbacks and delays, the prayer books have arrived and they are beautiful. Again, a most heartfelt thank you is sent to Mel and his family for not only their generosity, but their patience in seeing this project through to the end.

"...as a leader in our movement, we will be able to connect our worship with the hundreds of other congregations who will be worshipping from the same prayer book. Forging a common liturgical language with our brothers and sisters in other congregations is a key element in creating meaningful community."

What will a new prayer book mean for Temple Shalom? First, as a leader in our movement, we will be able to connect our worship with the hundreds of other congregations who will be worshipping from the same prayer book. Forging a common liturgical language with our brothers and sisters in other congregations is a key element in creating meaningful community.

Second, I believe the new prayer book will allow greater access to prayer in general and the prayers of our tradition in particular. With the transliteration of the prayers we pray right on the page, worshippers will no longer have to turn to the "back of the book" to follow along. There is commentary on some of the pages and a kind of an index in the margins to help us understand where we are in the rubrics of the service. If one's eyes wander across the pages, one can find Hebrew, English, poetic readings, commentary and meditations that all help in fostering a meaningful prayer experience.

Finally, the new prayer book, in its entire splendor, does present a few challenges. There are no indicators to stand or sit. There are no italics indicating congregational reading. There are several more options for which reading will be done in what order. All of these differences (and I am sure there are a few more) may present some difficulties for some. There will be a necessary period of adjustment and getting used to the new format. I pray that the changes will be eventually welcomed and embraced.

I hope you will join us for services on Friday, January 11th at 6:30 P.M. to welcome in this historic moment in the life of our movement and in our congregation. May your prayers and the prayers of our new Siddur create a sweet sound of joy and praise that reaches the throne of God.

Hanukkah as the Festival of Sustainable Light

The primary Jewish watchdog organization in the areas of ecology and conservation is the Coalition on the Environment and Jewish Life (COEJL). As we prepare to celebrate Hanukkah, COEJL suggests that freeing ourselves from dependence on Middle Eastern oil is a necessary response to terrorism, as well as a way to conserve energy, slow global climate change, and even save money. Here are eight actions - one for each night, of course - that we might take this Hanukkah to help achieve energy conservation, slow global climate change and save money:

8 Days, 8 Actions

Day 1: Let there be sustainable light.

Change one regular bulb in your home to a CFL (Compact Fluorescent Light).

It is estimated that about three light bulbs burn five or more hours a day in the average US home. If those three bulbs were replaced with compact fluorescents in every home, it would eliminate about 23 million tons of carbon dioxide emissions a year! Don't be fooled by the seemingly higher prices of CFLs. They last ten times as long as standard incandescent bulbs and use only a quarter of the energy to produce the same amount of light- a modern Hanukkah miracle! (To find CFLs near you, contact your local hardware store or visit www.greenpages.org.)

Day 2: Turn down the temperature of your water heater to the warm setting (120°F).

Water heaters are the second largest energy users in the home, averaging 20% of all household energy use. With heaters set at the maximum 140°F, most of us need to dilute our hot water by turning on the cold tap anyway. By changing the setting to 120°F you'll not only save energy, but also avoid scalding your hands!

Day 3: Lower your thermostat 3°F.

Did you know that for each degree that you lower your thermostat in the winter, you could cut your energy use by about 3%? By lowering your thermostat just 3°F, you can reduce your energy consumption by nearly 10%. The same applies to raising your thermostat 3°F in the summertime; doing both can prevent, on average, the emission of nearly 1,100 pounds of carbon dioxide annually. You probably won't even notice the difference!

Day 4: Skip a car trip.

Transportation, specifically in automobiles, is responsible for about a third of American greenhouse gas emissions. What's worse, while the trend is to buy large SUVs or 8-passenger vans, we spend the majority of our time driving alone. Carpooling helps, and buying locally cuts down on unnecessary driving as well. Today, walk, run, skate, bike, or take public transportation instead of a car ride.

Day 5: Start a scrap paper pile.

More than 40% of all waste in US landfills is paper products. Temple Shalom now has community recycling bins which has helped to save trees and produce biofuels from old paper fibers that can be used to generate cleaner energy. However, we are still too quick to toss sheets with only a few lines on them. Add another important step to the recycling process right in your home by starting a scrap pile with used pieces of paper (that only are printed on one side, for example). You can use the backs for printing drafts of documents, writing notes, making shopping lists, etc. And the paper gets double the life! Go one step further by buying recycled paper products and you've completed the recycling loop!

Day 6: Give your home a Hanukkah Gift from Energy Star.

Energy Star is a US program jointly run by the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) and the US Department of Energy to label and promote energy efficient appliances and products. Because Energy Star is purely voluntary, companies can only obtain the right to use the Energy Star logo if their product is significantly more efficient than required by government standards. In addition to refrigerators, cooling & heating units, dishwashers, washing machines, etc. energy-efficient TVs, VCRs, and DVD players are available. If the average American were to equip their home with only products that have the Energy Star label, they'd lower energy bills-and reduce greenhouse gas emissions-by nearly a third! (For more info about Energy Star visit their website at <http://www.energystar.gov>)

Day 7: Write a letter to the President or Congress.

As you've experienced the past six days, we can all do a lot to lower energy consumption in our own homes. We also need to change our nation's energy policy to effectively reduce our nation's energy consumption. Write to the President, your representatives in Congress and local authorities to let them know what you've done at home and ask them to make changes in energy policy to promote conservation and the development of clean energy sources. See COEJL's Web site at www.coejl.org for sample letters.

Day 8: Have a candlelight dinner.

Roughly a quarter of the total electricity generated in the U.S.-$37 billion worth-is used for lighting. This is more electricity than the continents of South America and Africa, combined, use for all purposes! Shut off all of your lights for an hour and enjoy your last evening of latkes with the full Chanukiah glowing. (You may want to light a few extra candles; it is traditional that we do not use the Chanukiah as a functional lamp.) It can be a romantic dinner or special holiday memory for your kids!

Cantor's Salons Celebrate Israel's 60th Birthday

This year all four Sunday afternoon salons will feature musical aspects of Israel's 60 years of existence. The first program will feature songs and dances of the Chalutzim, the Pioneers who settled in Palestine to make the desert bloom before Israel became a sovereign state. After a hard day's work trying to tame the land, these determined Jews needed some evening entertainment. Composers created all sorts of memorable tunes with lyrics that reflected their life in the Holy Land. Dance music was created around words from the Bible. Dodi Li, one of the most famous tunes for dance, gets its text from the Song of Songs; and Hinei Ma Tov, still a popular dance tune, gets its text from Psalm 133.

Join us Sunday, January 27, 2008 at 4:00pm in the Epstein Chapel to enjoy "Songs and Dances of the Chalutzim."

Our very own Israeli dance captain, Howard Schwartz, will be on hand with a "dance company" from our religious school to demonstrate some of the steps they have been learning while coming to his classes.

This program is open to the community. RSVP to Patti Baker at pbaker@templeshalomdallas.org

Cost: $10 per person per Salon.

PRESCHOOL

Safety 9-1-1

Safety 9-1-1 was a great success again this year. Everyone not only had fun, they had many opportunities to learn how to stay safe in the water, from fire, in the car and much more. Many thanks go to the wonderful PTO members of our preschool. All families and teachers were involved. Special thanks goes to Olivia Sargon-Glasgow, Deanna Koenigsberg, Jennifer Whittier, Rachel Starr and Shari Sandberg. Their hard work and excellent organization made the event a success. We also thank SHFTY members who donated their time making sure each booth was manned and safe.

Again, the highlight of the event was the Dallas Police Helicopter which circled the grounds before landing and again upon taking off. This year the children were able to climb aboard this very new helicopter. Dallas Council member Linda Kroop attended our event and was thrilled that this helicopter as well as the fire engines, police offices, fire fighters and fire safety house were here to teach the children about safety and to feel comfortable with fire fighters and police officers.

We thank everyone who supported Safety 9-1-1 with donations and participation. Our net profit of $3500 has been used to purchase new tricycles for the preschool playground as well as digital cameras and printers for each classroom. Yasher Koach Preschool PTO!

Mark your Calendars!

Friday, February 8 is the date for prospective students and their families to visit the preschool and join us as our guests for dinner at Tot Shabbat in the evening. I know it is hard to begin thinking of summer camp and the 2008-2009 school years but February 8 is the start of new student registration. Current preschool families and Temple Shalom members will be able to register for camp and school beginning January 18, 2008. Be on the lookout for the registration form for camp and school on the website beginning mid-January.

Sukkot

Everyone had a good time sharing dinner in the sukkah. It was a special time to dwell, to eat and to shake the lulav and etrog in the sukkah.

Preschoolers line up waiting to perform the mitzvah of holding the lulav and etrog

Spend Shabbat with other Tots at Temple Shalom!

Tot Shabbat at Temple Shalom is the 2nd Friday of every month. After a Shabbat service tailored to kids, join the Rabbis, Cantor, and other families with young kids in lighting the candles, saying the prayers, and eating dinner.

Bring your own dinner, however please no pork or shellfish. Following dinner will be an interactive kids program and Oneg.

Bring the whole family every month! All children having a birthday will receive a special blessing that month.

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL

Shalom Chaverim,

As I meet and get to know the students in the Religious School, I have come to discover that their favorite Jewish holiday is Hanukkah. When asked the obvious follow-up question of "Why?" the answer is usually the predictable one of gifts, food and fun (in no particular order). For me, having grown up in the southern hemisphere where Hanukkah falls during our Summer vacation and takes simple and almost insignificant place on the Jewish calendar, I am intrigued as to how a once-simple holiday has become irresistible to kids in the United States. As parents, we need to take advantage of our children's wonder of this holiday and take the opportunity to rededicate (as Hanukkah literally means 'dedication') ourselves to keeping the lights of our heritage aglow.

The holiday of Hanukkah takes place primarily in our homes; however, make sure that you don't miss out on our community's Hanukkah events; where we light candles on Chanukiahs (an 8 branched menorah) for eight nights. What a great opportunity to spend time together as a family and with friends to cherish our wonderful history and survival as a people. Whatever age and stage you find yourselves, there are Hanukkah stories that retell the story of the Jews', led by a group known as the Maccabees, victory against their Syrian-Greek oppressors and the recapturing of Jerusalem and the Holy Temple. Take this opportunity to create candle lighting ceremonies, making your own Chanukiahs, decorations, food, games, gifts and special mitzvahs for this time of the year. As oil is so symbolic to the Hanukkah story, the food we eat is laden with oil. Take some time to cook latkes, sufganiyot (jelly donuts) or Hanukkah symbol-shaped cookies with your children. The memories that we create with food are unforgettable. Hanukkah would not be the same without dreidels and gelt. So, make sure you have all that you need to create a Hanukkah filled with spiritual inspiration, nourishment and love.

As the secular new year dawns in January, we mark the Jewish calendar with the festival of Tu B'Shevat, a Jewish Arbor Day, on January 22nd. This holiday turns our attention toward Israel, the approaching spring, and our awareness of our environment and the planting of trees through the Jewish National Fund (JNF) in Israel.

There is a Talmudic story of a man by the name of Honi HaMe'agel. One day Honi saw an old man planting a carob tree. Honi asked how long it would take for the tree to bare fruit. The man replied, "Seventy years." Honi asked the man if he ever expected to eat the fruit from the tree he was planting. The man answered, "I enjoyed the fruits of the trees which my parents and grandparents grew. As they planted for me, so I plant for my children." Planting for the future is a lot of what parenting is about. Most of what we do today has no immediate or obvious effect. Yet, the influence of our every day actions with our children will have great bearing on their future and on the future of the generations yet unborn. So, plant the seeds in your homes in the ways of Torah, as it is called "a tree of life to them that hold fast to it."

B'Shalom,
Peta Silansky,
Religious School Principal

Young Adults of Temple Shalom Chai-Lites

While the weather has cooled a bit, the Temple Shalom Young Adults are heating up Dallas. We shook our lulav and etrog under the sukkah at our second annual Salsa in the Sukkah party, and officially kicked off our monthly Davening & Dining series at Dave & Buster's in October and Caravelle in November. These events were huge successes with dozens of attendees, many of which were new faces. Our social action projects to date have included the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society's Light the Night walk, serving meals to the homeless at Project Stewpot in Downtown Dallas, and serving lunches to around 100 homeless for the Merry Mitzvah Project at the Austin Street Center in conjunction with young adults from Temple Emanu-El, Congregation Shearith Israel, and the Federation's YAD.

The most exciting item we have to report is that both of our Young Adult Leaders: Rich Reister and Anna Miller, along with Rabbi Schneider, are attending the Union for Reform Judaism Biennial in San Diego, CA December 12-16th. There they will network with other young adult groups and attend several presentations to bring fresh, new young adult programming to our Temple!

For more information, or if you know someone between the ages of 22-39 and would like them to receive "Chai-Lite's," the Young Adults electronic newsletter, please contact Rabbi Jeremy Schneider at jschneider@templeshalomdallas.org.

Shalom Singles

It's hard to believe that the Shalom Singles 39-59 and Shalom Sr. Singles began just three months ago! As of October, the Shalom Singles have 214 Jewish singles on our mailing list! Both groups got off to a fast start as news traveled quickly around the Metroplex, that Temple Shalom had two new, much needed singles groups.

New names continue to come in every day and the Shalom Singles 39-59 group has met and mingled at Services, big mixers, dinners, etc. December/January plans include a Wine Tasting Party, dinners, movies and, possibly, bowling and sports events.

The Sr. Singles are also growing and planning brunches, dinners, house parties and plays.

For more information on current programs, please check our web page at templeshalomdallas.org. Click on "About Us" and then on Singles.

Take that first step to making new friends and enjoying new activities; resolve to make 2008 one of your best years ever! Just send your e-mail address and phone number to singles@templeshalomdallas.org and get the ball rolling!

Put More Fun in Your Life - JOIN A HAVURAH!

A Havurah is a small fellowship group of people (of similar age and/or interests) who get together regularly for Jewish study, holidays, speakers, discussions, outings, and whatever other activities that particular group desires. Havurah means friendship; hopefully by meeting regularly, each group will bond and stay together for many years.

We are currently re-energizing the Havurah program at Temple Shalom. We plan to have Haverot for young couples, young families, interfaith couples, empty nesters, Parents Without Partners, a singles group for 40s and 50s, and whatever other groups for which there is interest. We have a new Havurah group for singles 60+. Watch for details of meetings in Plano, Dallas and other areas.

We welcome your ideas too; so pick up the phone or send an e-mail, but get the ball rolling! Enhance your life with new friends and new interests. JOIN A HAVURAH!

For further information, please contact Lonna Rae and Jerry Silverman, Co-Chairs of Haverot at 214-636-4799 or lrstx@tx.rr.com.

If interested in either singles group, please contact Judy Troyan Parker at 972-386-5969 or heyjud38@aol.com.

President's Message

Our Second Annual Toast N' Roast Dinner honoring Mel Sacks was a huge success with 150 people in attendance. I want to share with you what was expressed during the evening many times by many people. The outpouring of warmth and love for Mel truly displayed a very strong aspect of what becoming a member of our Brotherhood represents. Our Temple Shalom Brotherhood not only provides important support for our Temple programs but, more importantly, provides camaraderie, fellowship, mentoring and sharing a common bond of brotherly love within our membership. If you still have not joined us to become part of our "Minyan of Men" please contact Jim Davidson, our membership chair, myself, or any member of our board, and we can share with you personally what being a member of our Brotherhood truly means.

We will be celebrating another great aspect of our Brotherhood's programming on Sunday, December 9, when we host our annual Temple Shalom Softball League awards breakfast. Please plan to join us for food, fellowship and more fun. Also take the opportunity to donate blood that day.

All of my executive committee and board members join me in wishing everyone a very Happy and Healthy 2008. We are all working very hard to help plan the remainder of our programming for 2008.

Please feel free to contact me, or any member of our board, if you have any questions, suggestions for programming or anything else that concerns you. We welcome everyone's input to help build an even stronger Temple Shalom Brotherhood. Sincerely,

Marty Mintz
Temple Shalom Brotherhood President

Mitzvah Opportunity: Camp Hooray Needs You!

We are excited that Temple Shalom is coordinating Camp Hooray for the ninth consecutive year. Julie Gothard and Adam Kaplan are co-chairing this very important and enriching social action event. Excitement is building to make this a meaningful experience for both campers and volunteer staff. Volunteers are needed to help with all phases of the camp's planning which is going on now until March. Camp counselors can be in tenth grade and up. We also need adult supervisors for the 3 days of camp activities. If you are able to participate only 1 night for supervision, that is ok, too. Any help we get is welcome and appreciated.

Camp Hooray is a non-religious camp for underprivileged fifth-grade children from RISD Academy and Carolyn Bukhair Elementary School, both located in Richardson. The overnight camp is 3 days and 2 nights at Greene Family Camp in Bruceville which is just south of Waco. This year Camp Hooray will take place on March 17th-19th.

The camp provides these children with a fun, enriching experience which builds relationships and fosters self-esteem. Activities at the camp include tower climbing, rope courses, theatre workshops, archery, cooking, song sessions, arts and crafts, a zip line, basketball games, and silly olympics. Also, motivational speakers provide successful, positive role models.

Camp Hooray is a wonderful experience for all who participate. Please help us make a difference in these kids' lives. If you are interested, please contact Julie Gothard at 972-403-1994, jrgothard@verizon.net or Adam Kaplan at 972-248-4762 akaplan12@gmail.com.

HOME SWEET HOME.....BUT WHERE IS THAT?

By Jo-Ann Saunders, M.S., Educator/Consultant, hereforashorttime@sbcglobal.net

Dallas has been my home for 30 years now and I love it. I don't even remember when I stopped calling Columbus, Ohio, the city in which I was born and raised, "home," but I do know it was a very long time ago.

I haven't been real good about going back to Columbus since my parents moved away (to live on a golf course in Florida), over 15 years ago. I do go back to my high school reunions every five years, but that's about it. As much as I loved growing up there, I really haven't missed not being there.....until this past week.

We attended a wedding in Cleveland a week ago and, since we were only two hours away, we decided to make a little vacation of it and go back to Columbus. Two of my siblings, my closest cousin and my best high school friend still live there. With so many loved ones there, why haven't I gone back more often?! I have no idea!

YOU know the saying- you don't really appreciate what you have until it's gone. Well, I haven't been back to Columbus in the fall (my reunions are always July 4th) for years and years. OMG!! THOSE TREES!! So beautiful! So abundant! And they were at their PEAK with the fall foliage! We took the scenic non-freeway route from Cleveland to Columbus (through Amish country). We had been to New England to see the foliage a couple of years ago, but this was every bit as beautiful, if not more!

Once in Columbus, we drove through familiar neighborhoods, past favorite schools and hangouts and the trees were just..... EVERYWHERE! Had they always been? Of course they had! But when that's all you know, when you see it every day, you don't have a clue as to how incredible nature can be, literally, right in your own backyard.

My sister and older brother never moved away. I wonder if they take the beauty of their everyday environment for granted? My younger brother also moved away years ago (to Florida) and when we spoke on the phone, he told me that he, too, really misses the trees. Steve, my significant other, grew up and went to college out in W. Texas where trees and rolling hills are definitely not part of the landscape! You can imagine HIS awe! Not only with nature, but with the ambience that goes hand in hand with being at a Big Ten school.

EVERYONE, whether we were on campus or not, was wearing something that had Ohio State on it, from the moment we landed at the Columbus airport to the day we met my niece, a lawyer, for breakfast. She told us that every Friday at her job is OSU day, where they have to wear either the school colors of scarlet and gray or something with OSU on it. I whispered to Steve, "You are in BUCKEYE COUNTRY now, BOY!"

So, my purpose in writing about all this is to see if any of this rings true for you, too. Where is home for you? Where you grew up or where you live now? When did that change? How often do you go back? Are you glad to be gone or do you miss it? I have always told people that Columbus was a great place to grow up, but I've loved experiencing life elsewhere as an adult, and that's still true. But the older I get, the more I realize that my hometown was one really incredible place in which to grow up and I am who I am because of my formative years in the Midwest. I just have no idea why I stayed away so long, but no more! I now plan to go back at least once a year- most likely, in the fall. The roots of those beautiful trees are part of MY roots and will forever be a large part of my heart and soul..... no matter where I call home!
