I Was Just Thinking...

Believe me, I am no expert on globaleconomictheory. I leave that to the professors, the strategists and the politicians. Given the complexities of managing such details, I often wonder whether biblical economics would be a better choice for today. My teacher, Rabbi Arthur Waskow, teaches that Biblical economics are, of course, quaint and unrealistic. They're based on romantic ideas about benefiting the poor, the landless, and the outcast. Good for motivating open-hearted charity; bad for making decisions necessary to run a successful economy.

But, the basic religious economic premise was not just about being nice to poor folks. It was about the flow of God's abundance that must move through the whole society, not get stuck in the pockets of the few. When the flow gets stuck, the clumps of super-wealth become an embolus. They stop the flow of healing blood, the arteries choke up, the heart stutters and stops -- and society keels over. Sort of what we're feeling now.

It is certainly urgent to shape our financial system so that a massive economic collapse does not descend upon us. But are we simply propping up the old system - the same one that has set up our risk of disaster? Are we turning over the process to many of the same people who set up the disaster in the first place? Or can we address the basic issues, the ones our religious traditions teach?

So far, the most "radical" policies have been that a governmental economic czar will save the financial institutions that are in trouble, by buying and selling their assets -- and taxpayers will bear the burden and the risk. In the original proposal, all decisions were to be made by the Secretary of the Treasury, with court or administrative-commission review explicitly prohibited.

But, so far, the whole notion of rhythmically redistributing wealth --- a vision at the heart of biblical economics - is not on the agenda. That vision is encoded partly in the redemption and redistribution of family land each fifty years -- the Jubilee - and the annulment of debt each seventh year - all in the context that for the seventh day, the seventh month, the seventh year, and the year of seven cycles --- seven times seven plus one --- the whole society rests and reflects, along with the earth itself. Not only physical work pauses, but hierarchy pauses as well. Boss and servant vanish, for a day, a month, a year.

And, the redistribution is also encoded in the right of the landless to feed themselves by working, gleaning, in the fields of the landowners. No one can deny them this relationship with the means of production. No "unemployment."

The biblical pattern does not try to freeze into permanence an artificial arithmetical equality. It recognizes that cleverness and laziness, good luck and bad, generosity and stinginess, will reappear, and will have economic effects. But it looks toward rhythmic readjustment, making sure the flow continues. And part of that flow is -- no compulsory overtime. Shabbat is for everyone.

We are creative and imaginative. We can build those necessary structures which will provide for better energy use, better jobs, better education and better equitable distribution of God's abundance. I know we can do that. But we cannot leave those worries to others. We have to be involved in the processes of making that happen along with those leaders entrusted to work on this for us. And, when we solve those problems, just imagine. Imagine... time to sing, to dance, to pray and meditate, to rear the children, to care for the elders, time to just be."

those worries to others. We have to be involved in the processes of making that happen along with those leaders entrusted to work on this for us. And, when we solve those problems, just imagine. Imagine...time to sing, to dance, to pray and meditate, to rear the children, to care for the elders, time to just be. If the flow of abundance starts with us, it will reach everyone. Our banking crisis will vanish.

The decentralized, shared economy of the future starts with the decentralized polity, the shared citizenry of today. If politics begins with us, so will economics. In this very moment, it's up to us.

New Year's Resolution #18: Invite a Friend to Temple Shalom

I once saw a feature on the news about a coffee drinkers' club in Arcola, Illinois. Behind the counter of Errol's Prescription Pharmacy is a long rack of personalized coffee mugs - one cup for each member of the club. The organization began 50 years ago when one of the regulars suggested that the names of loyal customers be recognized in some public, lasting way. That was 50 years ago, and today there are 162 cups in the rack and a waiting list twice that long of people who can't become members until another member either moves off or dies. The feature concluded: Having a coffee cup up there with your name on it is a sort of guarantee. It is confirmation that you are alive and well and part of a community.

I would tell you that in a world of fast breaking headlines, escalating crises and journalistic hype, this is the most important news story I've seen in a long while. A group of 162 people who actually have a good sense of where it is they belong in the world.

These men and women of Arcola are saying, in effect, that amid all the turmoil and the upheaval, amid the dislocation, the violence and the chaos, there is still a place, at least one place, where I fit in. A place where I am welcome and welcomed and wanted and comfortable. A place where - if I didn't show up tomorrow - I would be missed.

A coffee drinkers' club is a newsworthy event for one reason. In this world, if in one small corner of this world, you have a sense of security - that sense of security will most likely allow you to step out into our much more dangerous world with some greater reassurance and ease. If my coffee cup sits secure on the wall, I am more likely to feel empowered, emboldened to go out into the world because, at least in one place, I know that I am surrounded by others who acknowledge my existence, who care about it, and who care about me. That is the very definition of emotional and psychic security.

We human beings need a sense of security in this life. We need a sense of belonging. In a world seemingly coming apart at the seams, we need a place to fit in, to nest, to find a level of comfort in the context of people, place and familiar surroundings.

Interestingly, the Hebrew word for place, the word makom, is also one of the names for God. We all find our place, our being - as it were - in the fullness, in the infinite presence of the Divine. But, I speak now not of God's place but rather of this place, this Temple, and our desire to welcome newcomers into the company and fellowship of this congregation.

Home, said Robert Frost, is the place that when you go there they have to let you in. I say that a spiritual home is the place that when you go there it feels as if God let you in. And that welcome is brought about by a mysterious and not totally controllable process that combines the place itself with the people who share the place with you.

Many of us did not grow up as children in this place. That is to say, you had to make this place your place, and - to paraphrase Emily Dickinson, it takes a hundred meetings, partings, exchanges and walks across the same uneven pavement to create a sense of belonging to a place.

Social historians will tell you that up until the late 1700's, most people spent their entire life no more than five miles from the place they were born. By comparison, since leaving home for college, I have lived in 5 cities spread out over two continents. And I'm still young! And I do not think my experience is all that unique. Today we live in a world of people who are uprooted time and time again from their place, citizens of a highly mobile society who face the enormously difficult task of cultivating a sense of place in the world. And since we no longer can count on geography to establish a sense of belonging, we must now try to find our place within a network of human association instead.

This network of association - call it a clan, call it a tribe, call it a club, whatever you call it - we need it. We need it because we are human. People come from people. Before you, around you, after you - there are others. Our psychic and emotional security requires it. And whereas family formerly filled that function, that sadly is no longer the case.

The problem with family, nowadays, is that they are just too far away. In emergencies, family will race across continents to be with us. On milestone occasions they will travel across the ocean to be at our side. But family addresses no longer dictate residential addresses. We may visit once, twice a year, but families are often too distant to get us through the bruising of an ordinary Wednesday or Thursday afternoon. For this we have to rely on a family of friends, a network of others. Sociologist Ellen Howard says, "If our relatives are not, do not want to be or for whatever reason cannot be our friends, then by some complex alchemy we have to turn friends into relatives. When blood and roots won't do, water and branches must."

Here, at Temple Shalom, we can be that family, that second home. So, if you haven't already, make it your New Year's Resolution to reach out to someone who is unaffiliated and invite them to your home -- to Temple Shalom and ask them to hang their coffee mug...or Kiddush cup as it may be -- with us.

EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

As you all know, Temple Shalom Preschool is accredited by the National Association for the Education of Young Children, NAEYC. Every year, NAEYC holds a conference which usually draws between 25,000-35,000 educators. This year, the NAEYC conference is being held in Dallas, November 5-9 at the Dallas Convention Center. We are very fortunate to be able send all of our preschool teachers to the conference this year based on the generosity of the Temple Shalom PTO (Parent Teacher Organization) and the Education Department of the Jewish Federation of Greater Dallas.

Every Jewish Preschool in Dallas will be closed during the conference so that all of our teachers can participate in the Jewish Network workshops, and the other sessions led by national leaders in the field of Early Childhood Education. Every year, our teachers are required to take classes in professional development equal to 15 class hours. It is not often that so many leaders in our field are available to us and we feel honored that the parents in our school understand how important this opportunity is.

School Year Plus students will be able to come to school on November 5-7. If you have experience in the field of early childhood education and are available to help us on those days, please notify me as soon as possible either by e-mail or by calling 972-661-5025.

SOCIAL ACTION OPPORTUNITIES

HIGH HOLY DAYS FOOD DRIVE

Once again, Temple Shalom will be collecting non-perishable food and bath aids to donate to the Jewish Family Service Food Pantry and the Network of Community Ministries. Grocery bags will be handed out on Rosh Hashanah. Please fill these bags and bring them back on Yom Kippur. For security reasons, all donations will be placed outside the entrance. Recommended items include:

Canned meat, chicken and fish	Sugar (up to 4 lb. bag)
Pasta, beans and rice	Flour (up to 4 lb. bag)
Peanut butter	Canned frosting
Canned or dried fruit	Hot and cold cereal
Canned soup	Kids snacks
Tomato sauce, tomato paste	Mayonnaise, jelly, jam, salad dressing (in non-breakable containers)
Crackers, cake mix	Laundry detergent
Macaroni and cheese	Bath tissue
Coffee, tea, fruit drinks	Deodorant, shampoo, soap
Dried potatoes
Hamburger Helper, Pasta Roni

Where possible, please try to bring several smaller or single serving size items vs. one large item. This may not be as cost effective, but it will protect the integrity of the food and help a greater number of people. No damaged or expired products, please.

Volunteers are needed Wednesday, October 15 at 6:00pm in the Temple Shalom Social Hall to sort the collected donations. A light supper will be served. Please contact Elaine or Ron Wolff at 972-625-5400 or eswolff@sbcglobal.net to volunteer. Thank you very much.

Do A Mitzvah Be A "BUG" Volunteer & Mentor

Through Neighborhood Service Council, of which Temple Shalom is a member, Spring Valley United Methodist Church offers BUG – Bringing Up Grades, a free after school program for children in the Coit/Spring Valley area. Volunteers are needed to help K-6th Graders with homework, reading skills, and to encourage creativity. These children need positive role models and mentors. There is a waiting list of 40+ students. Anyone over age 18 who wants to invest three hours, one day per week, to help expand these children's horizons will be welcomed with open arms. BUG also needs van drivers, soccer coaches, data entry, and greeters. Contact Shawn or Ginger at 972-239-3501 or shawn@nscikids.org, or Temple member Dan Krause at 972-644-2299, for more information or to sign up.

Autumn at the Arboretum Saturday, October 25

Volunteers are needed to help with many of the fall activities. Shifts are 10:00am-2:00pm and 1:00-4:30pm. The Dallas Arboretum is a beautiful place to spend an autumn day!

Children under 16 must be accompanied by a parent. Contact Gail Gilbert at 972-387-1234 or agil1234@sbcglobal.net to volunteer.

Help A Soldier Call Home

Temple Shalom is participating in "Cell Phones for Soldiers." We have drop boxes for your convenience in the Temple Administrative and Religious School offices. If you have any questions about this program, please contact Temple member Randi Alter, randi.alter@gmail.com, 972-256-3200 or the website <http://www.cellphonesforsoldiers.com/index.html>.

Mark your calendar with the future dates: 11/9, 12/7, 1/11, 2/8, 3/8, 4/19, 5/3.

Help Serve Lunch to the Homeless

Brotherhood Babble

Why isn't every temple male over the age of 18 a member of Brotherhood? My answer: they will come, because we are building it. They'll come to Brotherhood events for reasons they can't even fathom. They'll turn up Alpha Road not knowing for sure why they're doing it. They'll arrive at our door as innocent as children, longing for the past. Of course, we won't mind if you join us, we'll say. It's only $50 per person. They'll pass over the money without even thinking about it: for it is money they have and peace they lack. And they'll walk around the temple; schmoozing and chomping on a bagel on a perfect afternoon. They'll find they have great seats somewhere at one of the tables, where they sat when they were children and cheered their rabbis. And they'll join in programming as if they dipped themselves in magic waters. The memories will be so thick they'll have to brush them away from their faces. People will come. The one constant through all these 40 years has been Brotherhood. America has rolled by like an army of steamrollers. It has been erased like a blackboard, rebuilt and erased again. But Brotherhood has marked the time. This Brotherhood, this organization: it's a part of our past. It reminds of us of all that once was good and it could be again. Oh... people will come. People will most definitely come. B'Shalom,

Dennis J. Eichelbaum
Temple Shalom Brotherhood President

Toast and Roast: Cantor Croll

Watch your mailbox for an invitation to the Annual Toast and Roast featuring Cantor Croll on December 7. This will be the event of the year, and you do not want to miss the fun. A blow-out dinner party at the Marriott Quorum featuring great food, a cash bar, an amazing silent auction, and the program of the ages: the Roasting (and some toasting) of Cantor Croll. Expect musical parodies, a belly-full of laughs, and a fun time had by all. This is the Temple Event you will not want to miss.

USHERS

Anyone interested in volunteering to usher Shabbat Services please contact Les Taub at 972-233-2181 or Itaub972@aol.com. Volunteers are entitled to the perk of selecting and reserving their own prayer book for that service, so don't delay, volunteer today!

Sisterhood v. Brotherhood
Are we Men or are we mice?
The membership match is on.

Breakfast October 19 9:00am – Social Hall

Brotherhood will be hosting a breakfast featuring a special guest speaker (To Be Announced). You see, sometimes we get such important and spectacular speakers that we cannot identify them too early or we fear there will be long lines and we will not be able to cope with the traffic. Brotherhood cannot accept responsibility for rioting in the streets, so for the benefit of the entire temple community and all of America we are withholding the identity of the speaker until we get closer to the breakfast date. Trust us – you will not want to miss it.

Looking ahead... February 14: Mark the Date!!!!!!

It took the Hebrews 40 years to find the land of milk and honey. And what did they do when they arrived? They celebrated by dancing in the streets, drinking milk and eating honey. On February 14, a date formerly known as Valentine's Day, Brotherhood will be celebrating its 40th anniversary with a dinner dance at the temple. There will be plenty to eat and drink, music for dancing, and even some door prizes. It will be a party for the ages, and all adults are welcome to join us. More information to come as the event approaches.

Shop Tom Thumb and Central Market and Donate to Temple!

You can help Brotherhood programs by eating! Every time you shop at Tom Thumb, Temple Shalom Brotherhood earns money. Just get a Rewards card, and have our Number credited with your purchase. Our Number is: Tom Thumb #1549. If you prefer Central Market, stop by the PreSchool and obtain a pre-printed card, and every time you shop there the Pre-School earns money.

Save the Date: Book Review

Tuesday, November 11th

11:00am Adult Lounge

Temple Shalom Sisterhood and the Adult Education Committee are planning the first book review of the season. Rabbi Jeremy Schneider will review The Man in the White Sharkskin Suit by Lucette Lagnado.

The Man in the White Sharkskin Suit is Ms. Lagnado's memoir of her family's heartbreaking exodus from Egypt and eventual resettling in Brooklyn. Through reflection on her own family, she has shed light on the untold stories of the nearly one million Jewish refugees across the Middle East, cast out from homelands they cherished and longed to return to until their deaths.

While the book sweeps from Cairo to Paris to New York, poverty and hardships provide a striking contrast to the beauty and comfort of a former life. As their lives become an inversion of the American dream, Lagnado's family transcends the fiercest of obstacles. It is a grand and sweeping story of family, tradition, tragedy and triumph.

Lunch will be available for $8.00 and will be served immediately after the book review. If you would like to join us for lunch, please mail your check, made out to Temple Shalom, to Carolyn Borkan, 7242 Holyoke Dr, Dallas, TX 75248-2239 by November 4. Please RSVP for this very exciting event to Eileen Lynn at eileen.lynn@sbcglobal.net or to Judy Parker at HeyJud38@aol.com or call Carolyn Borkan 972-931-8706. We look forward to seeing you!!
