I Was Just Thinking...

I love our sanctuary. The colors. The soaring ceiling. The simplicity of decoration. I love the Ark and the sculpture and the windows that allow us to bring a little bit of the outside into our sacred space. I chuckle at seeing everyone watch the crows bump into the windows and how they have an uncanny knack for doing that right in the middle of my sermon!

Sanctuary is a special place for many people for many reasons and I am honored to do my work in such a beautiful space.

The word sanctuary is a word derived from the Latin word sancti - meaning holy and arium - meaning a container for keeping something in. Therefore, a sanctorium, or sanctuary was a sacred object, a consecrated thing or place meant for holiness or safety, or, to put it in more of a modern sense, a sanctuary was always a safe zone, a safe concept, a safe place. It is where we go when we need quiet, a place for reflection, a place of welcome, a place of prayer, a place of blessing, a place of learning, a place of connecting with God.

But, sanctuary wasn't always just about prayer. There are animal sanctuaries, plant sanctuaries. There is also a concept of legal sanctuary which can mean a place of refuge. In early English Common Law, the church was a place where fugitives could go and where they were immune from arrest. This practice ended in the 17th century in a legal sense, but some churches still offer sanctuary even though it carries no legal authority. Legal sanctuary can also mean political sanctuary – immunity from arrest afforded by a sovereign authority. This is more commonly known as seeking political asylum.

Since the earliest of times, people seeking a safe place from the tyranny and oppression they experienced sought sanctuary – sought sacred places that allowed them the right of practicing their religion, spared them from racial bias, protected them against ethnic violence, and provided them with a shelter that allowed them to live their lives as God intended them to.

This has been the story of the Jewish people since the days of Abraham and Sarah who, as journeyers, sought God's blessing and protection in the Land of Israel, the ultimate sanctuary of the Jewish people. In the months leading up to WWII, those Jews aboard the St. Louis were denied sanctuary – in Cuba, in Canada, in the U.S. and then sent back to Germany where many died in the death camps. This is why we are always called upon to remember that we were strangers in a strange land and to never allow what happened to us, to happen to anyone else – ever.

The idea of extending the boundary of sanctuary beyond the Temple to cities began in 1979 when the city of Los Angeles instituted a police policy that prevented officers from inquiring about the immigration status of those they arrested. Los Angeles became the first "Sanctuary City". Currently there are over 200 cities across the country that have self-designated as sanctuary cities which, by the way, has no legal standing but was meant to make a point that sanctuary needs to be taken seriously.

In 1983, the National Safe Place Network of Louisville, Kentucky was founded to provide access to immediate help and support for children and adolescents who were at risk or in crises. Safespace.org explains that a safe place is a place where anyone can relax and be fully self-expressed, without fear of being made to feel uncomfortable, unwelcomed or challenged on account of biological sex, race/ethnicity, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, or cultural background. As of today, there are more than 20,000 Safe Places across the country. The idea that sanctuary needs to be extended beyond the Temple, Church or Mosque has clearly become a welcomed addition in the service of others.

Which brings us back to our sanctuary -- our place of shalom. I believe we at Temple Shalom pride ourselves on being both a sanctuary and a place of shalom – places where God's sanctity can be felt and expressed and where people feel peace, wholeness and completeness. I believe we have a Jewish responsibility as people commanded to listen to God's words, to provide this sanctuary to whomever walks through our doors seeking the pathway to a life of safety, meaning, beauty and God's presence. We will love our neighbor as we love ourselves and we will not stand idly blind to the plight of others as they seek the sanctuary they need. Let us be the place of welcome, so different from so many other places. As our prayer book, Mishkan T'filah says so powerfully, may we live this every day.

"May the door of this synagogue be wide enough to receive all who hunger for love, all who are lonely for friendship. May it welcome all who have cares to unburden, thanks to express, hopes to nurture. May the door of this synagogue be narrow enough to shut out pettiness and pride, envy and enmity. May its threshold be no stumbling block to young or straying feet. May it be too high to admit complacency, selfishness and harshness. May this synagogue be, for all who enter, the doorway to a richer and more meaningful life."

A Note from Cantor Devorah Avery

Pushing Boundaries and Overcoming Fears

Right now I know many of us are experiencing fear and uncertainty about the coming days, months, and years. My hope and prayer for all of us, including myself, is that we won't allow our fears to get in our way. This is a personal story of overcoming fears.

Six years ago, I had the opportunity to take part in something extraordinary. September 12, 2010, I participated in the Hudson River Swim For Life. The Hudson River Swim is a three-mile swim across the Hudson River. I did my training through Team-in-Training and raised over $1,500 for the Leukemia Lymphoma Society. Starting in late March and continuing all through the summer, I spent 3-4 days a week at the pool swimming laps. I started out slow, only swimming about 10 laps my first few times in the pool.

One day, after gliding steadily through my laps, a woman in my lane mentioned the swim to me. After hearing all the details and learning that I would be helping raise money for the Leukemia Lymphoma Society, I knew it was something I had to do. Slowly, slowly, I kept adding on more laps each time I swam, until I was up to half a mile, and eventually working my way up to a mile. On Sunday mornings in July and August, we swam as a team in the Hudson River. The first time we went to the river we swam a mile, then a mile and a half, then 2 miles, and finally, we came to the day of the swim, preparing to make the daunting three-mile swim from Nyack to Sleepy Hollow right alongside the Tappan Zee Bridge.

Swimming is something I started when I was a kid at camp at the Tulsa JCC. I joined the swim team in the summers and occasionally won a medal. In High School, I was on the swim team for about two years. While I enjoyed the competition, what I got most out of the races was shaving a couple seconds off my own time at each meet. I was absolutely not one of the best swimmers on the team, but I wasn't near the bottom rung, either. I was just an average swimmer, and that was fine with me, as long as I could continue to challenge myself to swim a little faster each time I was in the pool.

After High School, I stopped swimming and really didn't get back in the pool very often. This was in part due to insecurities and self-image issues and also due to an inability to prioritize exercise as something valuable and necessary in my life. I finally went back to swimming six years ago because I knew I needed to continue to find ways to be healthy and to release the stressors of everyday life.

I learned many things about myself through the experience of training for this swim. One of the very first things I noticed was an incredible feeling of inner calm and a sense of well-being after each dip in the pool. Swimming gives me a kind of spiritual experience, another opportunity to feel close to God. I also learned that, despite what I considered my limitations to be, I am strong and athletic. Like many, I have the tendency to let my fears and insecurities get in the way of my life. Though I wanted to swim and get back in the pool for years, I wasn't able to get my mind out of the way long enough to actually get wet.

Every week out in the water, I felt stronger and more confident. Every time I swam with the team in the river, I came out feeling exhilarated. Despite these wonderful feelings, for a couple of weeks leading up to the Hudson River Swim, I really struggled with my fears. So many times I asked myself, "How can I do this?"

The day of the swim came. Honestly, I don't know how I made it into the river with so many hundreds of people. Though the river looked calm and glassy that morning, before approaching the midway point, I found myself fighting very strong currents. For what felt like hours, but was probably closer to 45 minutes, I was caught in a current that kept pushing me away from where I needed to go. Though I was swimming with everything I had in me, I was getting no closer. Eventually, the coast guard came and picked me up, along with many other swimmers. They took us in part of the way, past the worst of the current and then we were let back out into the water to complete the race. After finishing the swim, I felt amazing and immensely proud. Though I was slightly disappointed at not being able to swim directly across the water, I learned later that somewhere around half the swimmers were brought in by boats at least part of the way, if not all the way, because of the strength of the currents.

Fears encourage separateness. They keep us inside ourselves and take us away from others. This secular New Year, instead of making a resolution, I am going to continue to ask God to help me recognize my fears and for help with not letting them control me. I believe that if we can all continue to slowly work towards recognizing, accepting, and finally facing or letting go of our fears, we can step out of them into a place where we will be more available to be of service to those in need. If we can do that, we will be that much closer to being true partners with God in tikkun olam, repairing the world.

Ford or Chevy?

Our lives are full of choices. These choices are often insignificant, but sometimes they are life altering. The process of selection is fascinating to me. What factors are reviewed when a person chooses one item or service or place over another? What drives customer loyalty to a particular brand? Do you drink Pepsi versus Coke? Do you fly American over Delta? Do you prefer Starbucks to Dunkin' Donuts? Does the idea of a Chevy over a Ford truck seem insane (we are in Texas so how do I not include a pickup reference)?

The reason we stay loyal to particular brands is generally a function of the core values and guiding principles of the organization. When value sets come together to create a quality service or product and an exceptional customer experience, people keep coming back. In fact, it goes beyond just the return customer. Brand loyal people become apostles (sorry, I couldn't think of a better word) and tell everyone they know to frequent the company in question.

For example, let's take a look at Patagonia. Patagonia is a company that sells winter athletic wear such as fleece jackets. Patagonia's mission, however, isn't to be the highest grossing company in its market. Rather, their purpose is to "build the best product, cause no unnecessary harm, use business to inspire and implement solutions to the environmental crisis". In line with their mission, they give generously to organizations focused on bettering the environment and are ecologically responsible. They purposefully design clothing that will last as long as possible. They sell clothes, yet, because of their mission, they actually don't want you to come back every year to replace your article of clothing. If the clothes last, they don't end up in a landfill. As a result of their "green" values, the company has a loyal, almost cultish, following of consumers that will only buy Patagonia.

The mission of Temple Shalom is "to inspire in our congregation an enduring relationship with God, Torah, Israel, and the Jewish people through worship, study, gathering and community service". This mission is intended to unequivocally state what we believe in and what we exist in the world to accomplish. What our mission doesn't define is who can be a part of our community. This is purposeful, because Temple Shalom strives to be an inviting, open, diverse, and accepting community of Jews and interfaith families. I think our openness, our warmth, our diversity, and our commitment to social justice is what separates us from all other congregations in the area. This is our brand promise and our value proposition. Now it is up to all of us to deliver on our promise and create an exceptional experience for all who come through our doors. To quote author Jeffery Gitomer, "You don't earn loyalty in a day. You earn loyalty day-by-day."

Just as the Ford driver can never imagine purchasing a Chevy, or the Patagonia loyalist can never imagine buying a North Face jacket, it is my hope that none of us will ever be able to imagine worshipping anywhere else but Temple Shalom.

B'shalom,
Josh Goldman
Temple Shalom President

Temple Shalom Spotlight Congregant of the Month

As part of getting to know our congregation, each month we feature a different Temple Shalom family.

Kimberly Kantor Family

Please introduce your family. I am Kimberly and I have two amazing daughters, Carlie (11) and Kaia (6), and am engaged to my wonderful fiancé, Lorie.

When did you join Temple Shalom? I joined almost 8 years ago when Carlie was just three, but I was also a member previously when I moved here from upstate New York during high school with my family.

Tell us about yourself. I am the mother of two beautiful, kind, and smart daughters! You can find us involved in various activities around the community that are both educational and fun! I worked in the field of education for 15 years as an Adapted Physical Education Consultant. I adapted and modified activities for children with disabilities in the sporting arena. Although I recently left education, I still fulfill my passion of engaging children in physical activity and sports through volunteering for Special Olympics, Sports Extravaganza, and Kid-netic Games. Come out and join us at any of these events or feel free to get in touch with me if you want to get involved!

I also founded a non-profit organization called Rainbow Roundup (RR) - an LGBT families group. RR helps connect individuals to resources, support, social and education events in a safe environment for all to share. We have grown rapidly over the years, now reaching over 1,500 across DFW.

Most recently, I got engaged to my wonderful fiancé, Lorie, whom I look forward to marrying in June 2017! I truly feel that I have met my soulmate and look forward to spending the rest of my life with such a loving, supportive, kind, and confident woman. We decided to combine our areas of expertise, and I now work as the Practice Manager of her law firm. My girls and I could not be luckier to have Lorie in our lives and we can't wait to be a family together!

What has been your greatest joy during your time at Temple Shalom? My greatest joy was celebrating both of my daughters' consecration services. I loved sharing this special and blessed time by gifting them each their own Torah which they will cherish for years to come in so many ways. This service, in combination with Simchat Torah, is such a wonderful way to rejoice together in the teachings of the Torah with all ages and over the ages! It's uplifting to hold the Torah in our hands and share our excitement of the traditions and teachings that we will continue to pass on.

Of all the activities in which you have been involved at Temple, in which one did you have the most fun participating? Food Truck Palooza! It was such a great way to raise awareness & funds for Literacy Instruction for Texas and Guns & Hoses, all while celebrating with the community. This is such a wonderful family friendly event full of good eats, great music, and entertaining games for the kids! This is fun for the whole family!

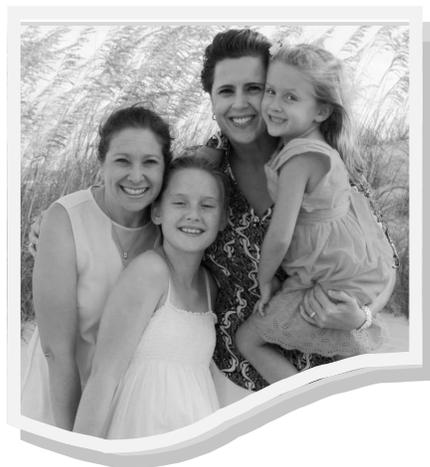

You are involved with many Temple programs. What is your favorite and what should others know about this program? Of all the many wonderful programs and activities we have loved at the Temple, I have enjoyed the Munchkin Minyans and Tot Shabbats that we have attended as a family over the past years. It's so wonderful to spend time with other families who value and celebrate Judaism and, together, teach and share among each other. My family has fond memories of gathering, mingling, and carrying on the traditions in a fun and family friendly environment.

What is your favorite Jewish holiday and why? One of our favorite Jewish holidays as a family is now Sukkot. For the first time in my life, we had our very own Sukkah in our backyard and have enjoyed spending family time under the palms, gourds, and structure of the Sukkah. We look forward to many more celebrations in the years to come. A close runner up would have to be Hanukkah, as I enjoy celebrating the traditions with the girls and I would be remiss if I didn't mention how much I love eating Grandma and Grandpa Diamond's homemade latkes!

Which of your activities at Temple fulfills you the most or makes you feel the most connected to Judaism or your Jewish identity? Participating in Tashlich with Temple Shalom congregants has always made me feel very connected to Judaism and my Jewish identity. It's been a wonderful way to share the holiday with my children and to help to teach them and provide a better understanding of Rosh Hashanah, that is something they both can relate to all while transcending meaning to us too, as we cast away our sins and ask to be inscribed in the Book of Life.

Something else I enjoyed immensely was volunteering with my daughter's religious school class at the Manchester Place Assisted Living Center near our Temple, and playing Bingo with the residents. This warmed my heart and taught the children patience, respect, and compassion while performing a beautiful mitzvah.

Thank you for being our Spotlight Congregant! Do you have any parting words or thoughts? Thank you for the opportunity to be the Spotlight Congregant and I look forward to many more holidays, festivals, and celebrations with Temple Shalom in the years to come.

Lifelong Learning Council

As Hanukkah approaches, our kids have two things on their mind: gifts and jelly donuts. Sure, these are wonderful parts of the holiday, and there is nothing wrong with us getting excited about them; but, what I am wondering about is how many of us actually take the time to think about the meaning of Hanukkah, beyond the gifts and donuts? How many of us reflect on the miracle of the oil and the victory of the Maccabees? How many of us use Hanukkah as an opportunity to think about the miracles in our lives? How many of us take time on this holiday to be grateful for religious freedom and prosperity? While I am confident that most of us have the gift giving and donut eating part down, I wonder if we can consciously improve our Hanukkah experience by adding in some more meaningful discussions and actions.

Over the last couple of months, in preparation for this article, I have spoken to Jewish families around the country about their unique Hanukkah rituals. I will share a few of them here:

In order to emphasize the story of the Maccabees and ensure that their children really know the story and meaning behind Hanukkah, each night, after lighting candles, the Cohen family reads a part of the Hanukkah story. Mr. Cohen makes sure to end each night at a good part so that the kids are excited to hear what comes next. As the kids are getting older, they are remembering more of the story and make guesses about what part comes next. Because the children love Passover and the telling of the Exodus story, the Cohens decided to bring the ritual of storytelling into their home and enhance their Hanukkah tradition with it.

Because the Solomon family felt that their kids were missing the miracle element of Hanukkah, they decided to dedicate time each night after opening presents to discuss the daily miracles in their lives. They explained to their children that daily miracles were specific things from their day that they were grateful for. According to Mrs. Solomon, their kids enjoyed this evening ritual so much that they have extended it past Hanukkah and now make it a weekly Shabbat dinner discussion.

The Greenberg family was looking for a change to their Hanukkah ritual of lighting candles and opening presents each night and decided to dedicate the 4th and 8th night of Hanukkah to gift giving, rather than gift receiving. On these nights, instead of their kids getting presents, they participated in family mitzvah projects. Before Hanukkah, Mr. and Mrs. Greenberg give the children a list of mitzvah projects to choose from and the kids each get to choose one. Over the years, the projects have included: making and delivering PB&J sandwiches to the homeless, visiting and playing with the dogs at the humane society, picking up trash in their local park, and making no sew blankets for the local shelter. The family plans to continue the tradition for many years to come!

If you, too, feel like your family could use some Hanukkah enhancement, feel free to borrow one of these rituals I listed above! Wishing you and your family a warm and festive holiday!

One of the most controversial films of its era, The Great Dictator, was Charlie Chaplin's first talkie, a searing condemnation of Hitler, Mussolini, Nazi Germany, and anti-Semitism before the horrors of the Holocaust were known. Some of Chaplin's greatest scenes are found on this film, and his dialogue was a bold political statement at the time. Nominated for five Academy awards, the Library of Congress selected it for preservation in the National Film Registry. So come laugh and cry with the Little Tramp, as you hear him speak for the first time. If you haven't seen The Great Dictator, you must. If you have, come relive the mastery.

Temple Shalom Opposes BDS Movement

In connection with Temple Shalom's commitment to our Jewish homeland – Israel, the Statement that follows is Temple Shalom's official Position Statement unanimously adopted by the Temple Board of Directors on behalf of Temple Shalom.

In compliance with the dictates of this Position Statement that Temple Shalom develop "specific actions" to oppose the BDS movements, the Temple Shalom Israel Connection Committee is pleased to trumpet to the entire congregation the following "specific actions" that it has implemented to date on behalf of our Temple, with additional actions in the planning stage. They are as follows:

- (1) The 2016 Israel Today Community Symposium in which panel discussions and lecture sessions (i) addressed the dangers of the BDS movements and (ii) presented many strategies for countering BDS in the schools and colleges, in the business community, and in the state and federal legislative bodies.
- (2) In connection with the anti-BDS bill to be submitted to the Texas Legislature in the upcoming 2017 legislative session, the Committee has conveyed Temple Shalom's support for the bill to Representative Phil King, who will be the principal author of the bill, and has also arranged for volunteer legal and personnel assistance.

Temple Shalom, founded in 1965, is a Reform Jewish Congregation located in Dallas, Texas. Over the past 50 years, Temple Shalom has maintained an informed connection with the State of Israel through, among other actions, the travel of its members and their families to Israel and/or by their participation in Temple Shalom's many educational programs focused on Israel and her issues. Indeed, Temple Shalom's very Mission Statement explicitly directs the Temple to inspire in its congregation an enduring relationship with Israel.

Temple Shalom stands for the proposition that the State of Israel has the unqualified right to exist as a Jewish and democratic state, and it accordingly supports a strong U.S. – Israel relationship as one that mutually benefits the United States and Israel. Thus, neither Israel, the survivor of our ancient homeland, nor its survival, should ever be threatened by any person or any entity. Israel is, without question, America's closest ally in the Middle East due, in large part, not only because of its strategic location, but because it shares our American freedoms and democratic values. Thus, Temple Shalom does, and will always, support the existence of the State of Israel, even when it may not necessarily endorse every action taken by her, any more than it does for any other country, including the United States of America.

There is an underlying immorality of those who are opposed to Israel's very existence. For this reason, as well as its unyielding support for Israel, Temple Shalom hereby emphatically denounces and pronounces its intention to take specific actions to oppose, the various Boycott, Divestment, and Sanction (BDS) movements that exist today. These movements are not only based upon intellectually dishonest fabrications of the facts, but many are merely cover-ups for the real objectives of elimination of the State of Israel and the expansion of anti-Semitism. Therefore, specific actions to oppose the BDS movement will be developed by Temple Shalom during the year, consistent with its Mission Statement, the U.S. Constitution, and the Rule of Law.

HOW PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION RESULTS MAY HAVE AFFECTED US/ISRAEL RELATIONS

The Israel Connection Committee will be hosting an event, at which all Temple Shalom congregants and friends are invited to listen to a lecture and ask questions regarding what effect the election of President-Elect Trump may have had on the U.S. Jewish community, the Israeli community, and U.S./Israel relations in general.

We are pleased to bring you
Leora Goldblatt, Regional Director of AIPAC, who will address each of these issues.

The next time you log on to Amazon, instead of using the regular Amazon page, go to <https://smile.amazon.com/> Then simply sign in with your normal Amazon credentials. The first time you sign in, you will be asked to select a beneficiary. Enter "Temple Shalom Dallas" and you will have the option of supporting either Temple Shalom or Temple Shalom Endowment Fund.

Make a selection and you're done! That's it, no kidding. From that point forward, each time you sign in to <https://smile.amazon.com/> and make a purchase, Temple Shalom will be the beneficiary. It's My Park Day

On Saturday, November 5th, members of our LIFT and Tikkun Olam Council team contributed arts & crafts and took the giant, "Connect Four" game out of the teen lounge and on the road to serve families transforming their park on "It's My Park Day" at 8389 Midpark Road and Temple Shalom was there advocating for LIFT, Literacy Instruction for Texas.

Community members collaborated with DPD, the City of Dallas, businesses and nonprofits to visually transform the park from a site known for vandalism and criminal complaints into a vibrant festival of play.

"This initiative is about our collective power to transform a place – a park, a street and a whole community," said Community Prosecutor Kelsey Ciluffo, in attendance.

Volunteers: Joan and Nick Cera, Barry and Jane Lachman, Jerri Grunewald, Jody Pearson, and Debra Levy-Fritts spread fun and Shalom on "It's My Park Day."

Shomrei Adamah — "Guardians of the Earth"

Some of you may have noticed that this year, for the first time, recycling was offered at Food Truck Palooza! This is just one of numerous ways Temple Shalom is taking steps to reduce our environmental impact. Other examples include:

- ◆ Single stream recycling is available throughout our building, which means that bottles, cans, clean paper, and plastics (all but #6) can all go in our blue recycling bins.
- ◆ Heating and AC are only turned on in spaces that are being used.
- ◆ Outdoor watering is limited to specific high-need areas.
- ◆ Our recent renovation includes energy efficient light fixtures, plumbing and window systems, and we are transitioning to energy efficient light bulbs as old ones are replaced.
- ◆ We have increased the amount of insulation in our building and use sustainable energy sources whenever possible.

Do you have ideas about how we can improve sustainability at Temple Shalom? Please contact Chair Nina Minney at earth@templeshalomdallas.org. Join us at our meetings on Sundays, Dec. 11 and Jan. 22 at 9:30am, Boardroom.

As individuals, there are efforts each of us can contribute as Guardians of the Earth. Ideas include:

- ◆ Recycle whenever possible! Seek out blue bins in offices and classrooms if you don't see one nearby. Also look for blue bins at events like Food Truck Palooza, especially for cans, which are made of very valuable natural resources. Avoid printing emails and handouts. Instead, keep digital files using online tools, and use projectors to share content electronically in meetings.
- ◆ Turn off lights behind you in rooms where switches are not automated, such as religious school classrooms.
- ◆ Carpool to and from services, religious school and temple events. Spare the air and get to know your fellow members a little better.
- ◆ Opt for reusable items such as coffee mugs, bags and towels, and cut back on these 7 Disposable Items That Are Polluting the Planet!

To become a Temple Shalom Dallas "Guardian of the Earth," email earth@templeshalomdallas.org.

CELEBRATING OUR FIRST STUDENTS' SUCCESSES - LIFT @ SHALOM

LIFT volunteers and students celebrated a "first" on November 28th! Our first small class of students completed their Basic level course. Thank you to our teachers Jerri Grunewald, Debra Levy-Fritts and Lonna Rae Silverman, and teaching assistants, Joyce Wilson, Ellen Liston and Nancy Devine. We so appreciate our building and office staff, our many volunteers throughout the semester, and the staff of LIFT who support our efforts! Together, we've logged 460 volunteer hours in support of LIFT students so far this school year!

LIFT students and teachers celebrating!

Registration for spring classes begins on January 9th & 10th. If you'd like to help spread the word and be part of our PR team, help support our efforts, or are interested in learning more, let us know at lift@templeshalomdallas.org

On December 4th and 11th, LIFT staff and volunteers will work with our seventh graders to raise awareness about the problem of illiteracy. Students will learn from LIFT staff about the widespread "word problem" in Texas, and nationwide. Through a number of simulated reading and writing challenges, students were able to experience the barriers created when someone experiences dyslexia (or other learning disabilities), or the inability to read and write as a second language student. Special holiday gift bags and bookmarks will be filled with messages of hope and perseverance for LIFT adult and ESL learners.

For information about how to volunteer, please contact Debra Levy-Fritts at lift@templeshalomdallas.org.

All trainings are done at LIFT, 1610 S. Malcolm X Blvd., Suite 320, Dallas 75216.

Gated parking is available at the rear of the building.

For information on these trainings, please contact lift@templeshalomdallas.org.

Our education initiative is concerned with helping all ages, including early childhood, and elementary learners: Are you interested in helping an elementary student master reading skills? Check out Reading Partners at <http://readingpartners.org/location/north-texas/> Locations at many DISD schools across the metroplex.

THANKS TO ALL WHO MADE DONATIONS TO THE NORTH TEXAS FOOD BANK VIRTUAL FOOD DRIVE THIS FALL, AND TO THOSE WHO BROUGHT FOOD DURING SERVICES, OR TO THE REVERSE FOOD TRUCK AT FOOD TRUCK PALOOZA!

The Temple Shalom Tikkun Olam Initiative wants to make the congregation aware of these events sponsored by JCRC and will include our whole community in an effort to be involved in increasing our efforts to advocate for child literacy programs in our city and the nation.

1. Plan to join the JCRC on our Mission to Austin: Day at the State, on February 22, 2017, as we advocate for access to quality early childhood education for all children.
2. Please mark your calendar for a service opportunity on Good Deeds Day on March 5, 2017.

BROTHERHOOD

Temple Shalom Brotherhood Keeps On Keepin' On with their approach to Tikkun Olam (repairing the world). I'm so proud of the approach of this organization and its members. I could give you a long list of what we do for the Temple Shalom community, the Jewish community, and the community-at-large, but let's leave that to another time. Instead, let me give you two examples of how our Temple Shalom Brotherhood continues to grow and reach for a better world.

By the time this article is published, we will have held our Movember benefit concert with the Hard Night's Day Beatles tribute band. The efforts to improve Men's Health started small when, a number of years ago, Sander Gothard supplied a speaker for a Brotherhood breakfast. Then, Mark Fisher, along with Steve Weintraub, became involved with the Movember Foundation (the leading global organization committed to changing the face of men's health). The following year, they approached Scott Butnick, Brotherhood President at that time, who enthusiastically supported the concept of Brotherhood becoming involved. The very first "Shave Off" only raised $250. We've come a long way from that first shave off, but the Brotherhood continues to reach for the stars. This year, we obtained sponsors to help cover the cost of the band, the most expensive part of this project: Munn & Morris Financial Advisors, Village Health Partners, and Progressive Packaging, along with two sponsors who wish to remain anonymous. With their sponsorship, almost every dollar of every ticket bought will go directly to supporting the curing of men's health issues. We are so proud of the efforts of Scott Butnick, Steve Weintraub and Mark Fisher, along with everyone who bought a ticket! You are literally saving the lives of your fellow congregants!

Temple Shalom is an inclusive, progressive congregation and so is the Temple Shalom Brotherhood. There are many ways to repair the world and one of them is by building bridges of communication, understanding, accepting differences and embracing the fact that we are all in this together. There is a driving force associated with people who are fighting the same battles Jews fight; prejudice against being different. We must continue fighting this fight. And that's what is so impressive about the upcoming honoree of the Shalom Award, The Reverend Dr. Neil G. Cazares-Thomas, Senior Pastor of the Cathedral of Hope in Dallas, Texas, the world's largest LGBTQ Christian church. We Stand Together fighting hatred, prejudice, ignorance and fear.

As I said earlier, I am so proud of the Temple Shalom Brotherhood for their efforts of Tikkun Olam (repairing the world)!

Remember the Temple in Your Will

Temple Shalom is committed to preserving the future of our congregation for generations to come. Bequests of all sizes are important resources for the Temple, and we encourage you to be a link to the future by remembering the Temple in your will. Your lasting tribute is your commitment to the survival of our religion, our Temple, and our people.

A bequest can easily be established by adding a simple codicil to your will. Additionally, many other options exist to leave a legacy for Temple Shalom.

A brochure with more information is available by contacting the administrative offices. For more information, please contact our Executive Director Steve Lewis at 972-661-1810 x202.

Your planned gift will serve the future of our congregation and community. Thank you for helping assure the strength and health of Temple Shalom for generations to come.

Congratulations to...

Services Online

Video streaming, webcasting, internet broadcasting, call it what you will, we are doing it! Regular Friday evening Shabbat services can be viewed on the internet for times when you cannot attend in person. B'nei Mitzvah services and weddings can also be scheduled for webcasting (for a fee). All live webcasts are also recorded and can be viewed "on-demand" at other times.

To view a Shabbat service live or on-demand, go to Temple Shalom's website at www.templeshalomdallas.org and then point to Worship or Multi-Media. Click on "Services online" and follow the directions. B'nei Mitzvah and weddings are password protected. To view one of these events live, viewers must obtain a password from the sponsoring family. The sponsoring family will also have a link for viewing the archive of a special event.

Our mission is to inspire in you a relationship with God, Torah, Israel and the Jewish people through worship, study, gathering and community service. Do you know someone we should invite to Temple, someone who is new to Dallas or is not connected to a congregation? Please contact Executive Director Steve Lewis slewis@templeshalomdallas.org so we can show them that Temple Shalom is their place.

Celebrating a SIMCHA?

Give the gift of Israel! Consider the purchase of an eMitzvah bond for as little as $36. The recipient will receive the principal plus interest at the end of the five year term. You can now invest in an Israel bond online for any occasion, at any time. Simply go to www.israelbonds.com, create an account and purchase a bond.

Name Tags at Shabbat Services
"Where Everybody Knows Your Name"

We ask visitors, members and their guests to wear a paper name tag at Shabbat services. We feel that we should all get to know each other and warmly greet our guests. Nothing does this better than seeing a person's name and addressing them with it.

We will have paper name tags available in the foyer, and for members who wish to have permanent magnetic name tags, you may order one at the sign-in table for a nominal charge of $5 each. These are appropriate for all Temple Shalom events.

As a caring community, we would like to reach out to our members. When there is an illness, death, hospitalization, birth, etc. please contact Elise Donosky in the clergy office at 972-661-1810 x201 or edonosky@templeshalomdallas.org. Clergy and the Caring Congregation Committee are here to help during times of need and celebration.

The on-line directory is updated periodically. Please send any changes to Joy at jaddison@templeshalomdallas.org. If you need assistance accessing the directory on our website, please contact Joy.
